Voters can drop off ballots at six Neighborhood Service Centers

SEATTLE – Now that King County votes entirely by mail, voters have two options to return their ballot: via the USPS or at a drop box.

Six of the Department of Neighborhoods' Neighborhood Service Centers have drop boxes. They are located in Ballard, Central area, Delridge, Lake City, southeast Seattle and University District. All drop boxes will accept ballots until 8 p.m. on August 18, Election Day.

For more information on King County's other ballot drop boxes or the August 18 election, visit www.kingcounty.gov/elections.
